

Delegate Hope spoke at the NARAL Pro-Choice Virginia press conference on January 13, 2016.

"Many women have difficulty getting to the pharmacy each month get receive birth control, whether they don't have reliable transportation or they live in a remote area of the Commonwealth. Dispensing a twelve-month supply of birth control at one time has proven to increase contraception continuation, and reduce a woman's odds of experiencing an unintended pregnancy by 30%."
